

PHM Says Good-bye to Rose

“What a lovely thing a Rose is!”
– Arthur Conan Doyle, The Naval Treaty

For 12 years, ERH Parish Health Ministry coordinator and early riser, Rose Lindeman, has greeted us, her co-workers, with her smile and laughter as we arrived for another workday. Her warm and infectious greeting was an inspiration to settle in and get down to the work of parish health ministry. Rose is dedicated to this work as she believes in the vision of ERH Parish Health Ministry (PHM): The lives we touch will experience wholeness of body, mind, and spirit. Anyone who knows Rose knows she passionately feels this work is best done at the grass-roots level with direct involvement with health cabinet members who minister to their congregations. Rose retired from her regular, part time PHM position in June 2014. She is staying on “as needed” (PRN) to help with special projects.

We want to take this opportunity to thank Rose for her dedication, spirit and unbelievable work on major events, particularly Refresh Your Soul. If Rose was given an assignment, you knew she would see it through to success and completion. Above all, we want to thank Rose for blessing our workdays with her presence, her example and her laughter.

Along with other volunteering opportunities, Rose will continue to be the lead for the Network of Care (health ministry) at Sts. Peter and Paul Catholic Church in Reading. We hope to see her at future ERH Parish Health Ministry events. For Rose, Don and their family members, we pray for a bright future with many blessings.
